What would happen if you tried a different media or materials?

How might you translate your work into 2 dimensions and/or 3 dimensions?

Could you experiment with a different ground?

What other technique could you use?

What would happen if you combined media or materials?

What if you eliminate something?